BOARD OF HEALTH SECRETARY DEAD

Dr. J. H. Carter, Oldest Practicing Physician in Jackson County, Passes Away at Home Here.

PHYSICIAN FORTY-FIVE YEARS

First President of Johnson County Medical Society—Funeral to be Held Wednesday Afternoon.

Dr. J. H. Carter, secretary of the city board of health, and one of the best known physicians in Jackson county, died about 4 o'clock this morning at his home on West Second street, following a short illness. About noon Friday he suffered a cerebral hemorrhage and his condition was critical from that time. Dr. Carter would have been seventy-one years old on March 26, and spent a large portion of his life in Seymour and the vicinity. The funeral will be conducted from the residence at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. J. H. More, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The Masonic Lodge, of which the deceased was a member, will have charge of the services. Seymour Commandery Knights Templar, will provide an escort.

Dr. Carter was born in Jackson county on March 26, 1848. He spent his boyhood days in the vicinity of this city and after completing his high school course he entered Franklin college from which he was graduated. After deciding to follow the medical profession he entered the Louisville College of Medicine and was graduated from that institution. He followed his profession actively for forty-five years, most of which time was spent in Johnson and Jackson counties. He was probably the oldest practicing physician in this county at the time of his death.

Fifteen years ago Dr. Carter located in this city and had practiced here continuously from that time. He was the secretary of the city board of health having been appointed by Mayor C. W. Burkart when he went into office in January, 1917. This was his third term in that capacity. He served four years under Mayor Allen Swope and a similar term under the administration of Mayor Henry R. Kyte.

Dr. Carter was instrumental in the organization of the Johnson county medical society of which he was the first president. He was actively interested in the work of that society until he moved to this city when he became a member of the Jackson county medical society of which he had also served as president. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and of Seymour Commandery, Knights Templar. He was also affiliated with the First Presbyterian church of this city.

Dr. Carter was twice married, his first wife being Miss Phoebe Owens of Franklin. They were married in 1871 but her death occurred ten years later, in 1881. To them four children were born, two dying in infancy. One daughter, Nancy, lived until she was eighteen years of age and a son, H. H. Carter, lives in this city. In 1898 Dr. Carter was married to Miss Rose Wiwi, of Effingham, Illinois. Besides the widow and the son the deceased also leaves one grandson, Owen M. Carter.

Dr. Carter had a large practice in this city and the vicinity. He gave a great deal of attention to the affairs of public health and kept in close touch with these conditions because of his relationship with the city board of health. He was a constant student of medical authorities and was particularly interested in the discoveries and revelations of the modern medical fraternity.

THREE SENTENCED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Harry Jones and Benjamin Bryant Given From 2 to 14 Years—Plead Guilty to Burglary

ROBBERY OF CLOTHING STORE

Ham Thompson of Houston, Fined $100 Upon Plea of Guilty to Passing Fraudulent Checks.

Harry Jones, aged eighteen years, and Benjamin Bryant, sixteen, both of this city, today were sentenced in circuit court to serve from two to fourteen years in the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, when they entered pleas of guilty to a charge of burglary. The youths were arrested in connection with the robbery of the Hub clothing store, in this city, several weeks ago. Warren Cross, the third party held in connection with the robbery is at liberty under bond. The date for his trial has not yet been fixed.

Jones and Bryant were unable to give bond and were lodged in the county jail. Two weeks ago they escaped by climbing through the chimney and jumping from the roof of the jail. They were recaptured here by Sheriff McCord and local policemen. It is reported that the boys tried to escape a second time about a week ago, but the sheriff interfered with their plans.

It is expected that the boys will be removed to the reformatory within a few days. They were charged with burglary in the second degree which included the entry of store-rooms and other places which are not used as places of residence.

Ham Thompson, of Houston, was also brought before the court and pleaded guilty to passing fraudulent checks. He was given a fine of $100. In case he is unable to pay or stay the fine, he will be required to serve one hundred days in the state penal farm at Putnamville. When fines of $60 and more are not paid, the defendant is taken to the penal farm instead of being kept in the county jail.

The case of Frank Franklin, charged with violating the prohibition law, was set for trial today, but was postponed until next Saturday.

Those drawn are: George Beckman, Washington township; Oliver Wray, Owen township; John Heleir and Mead Findley, Brownstown township. The vacancies will be filled Wednesday.

The grand jury has about completed its work, but a number of witnesses have been summoned to appear Thursday.

LEGISLATURE TO ADJOURN TONIGHT

Both Houses Clearing Decks for the Grand Midnight Finale of the 1919 Session.

CHANGE IN REFORM TAX BILL

Other Important Measures are out of the Way—Fifty Bills Before the Lower House.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10—Decks were cleared for final action in both the House and Senate today for the grand finale of the 1919 session of the legislature which will adjourn at midnight.

Concurrence in conference reports upon several measures of major importance was slated to be feature attractions in both branches on the closing day. Among the bills of first magnitude which has been agreed upon by joint House and Senate conference committees is the Mendenhall administration tax reform bill which was restored to practically its original form by the Senate after having been materially modified by the House. The Wolfson Senate amendment, requiring assessment of all taxables at their true value instead of one-half their actual worth, was eliminated by the conferees.

The tax bill, the longest measure ever introduced in an Indiana general assembly, the specific and the general appropriation bills and the conservation commission bill were all passed by the senate within a week. The House, without passing any omnibus measures was expected to clear its calendar of Senate bills and adjourn before midnight, having before it less than fifty bills including those passed by the Senate Saturday night.

The only chance for the Johnson child labor bill; the Wright bone-dry prohibition amendment measure and the garnishee bill to become laws this year rests in the possibility of the Senate taking them up for consideration under the suspension and constitutional rules.

The senate adopted the conference report on the tax bill, which eliminated the Wolfson amendment, providing for basis of assessment of property and other minor changes. There was little doubt but what the house would also concur in the report, when it is taken up late today.

The conference report on the measure did not further curb the powers of the state board of tax commissioners in any way. Their salaries were reduced from $6,000 to $4,600 a year.

The Masters amendment prohibiting the filing of any suit on a note or mortgage not listed for taxation was stricken out. The state auditor and the secretary of state were removed from the board to have charge of appointment of commissioners, leaving that power fully in the hands of the governor. The board also was given power to draft tax schedules. All schedules were eliminated from the measures.

Bills signed by the Governor today included the workmen's compensation act which brings 20,000 miners under the law, and the highway commission bill. The last attempt to make the prohibition law more drastic through the adoption of the Wright bill failed.

Government aid for a state free employment bureau was assured when the house passed the Strode-Van Auker bill, appropriating $38,000 as the state's share towards establishment of the bureau.

When the senate opened, Lieutenant-Governor Bush pointed out the fact that the house had failed to take action on the Van Auker bill, barring German language from high schools as a compulsory study.

Anti-German measures attracted probably more attention during the legislative session than any other class of bills. The Negley bill, prohibiting teaching of German in common schools, the McCray-Bush bill which provides penalties for teaching

STRANGER GIVES WORTHLESS CHECK

Secures $10 in Cash at The Racket Store After Having $2 Worth of Merchandise Laid Away.

PRESENTED BY YOUNG MAN

Same Party Tries to Cash Another Check at Husted's Millinery Store, But Fails.

There are quite a number of men in Jackson county by the name of John Smith, but none of them knows anything about a check drawn by "John Smith," which was given by a stranger at the Racket store Saturday night. The young man presented the check early in the evening and about an hour later discovery was made that it probably was of no value. The police were then notified but were unable to get trace of the party.

The man selected about $2 worth of merchandise at the store and asked that the goods be laid away as he said he would call for them later in the evening. Before leaving the store, he presented a check drawn for $12.50. The check was signed by "John Smith." He was given $10 in cash and a cash sale of $2 was registered. He departed and the merchandise is still being held for him.

Later in the evening, it was re-

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION SHOWN

Classification of Letters to Senators Relative to The League of Nations Plan.

DISCUSSION IS GENERAL

Various Views Expressed as to Desirability of Forming a World Society.

By United Press.

Washington, March 10.—The American people are responding eagerly to President Wilson's invitation to discuss the league of nations.

While controversies over war policies drew a tremendous number of letters, nothing in the memory of men now in congress equalled the present avalanche of mail at their offices. Senators haven't been able to read half the letters addressed to them over the subject, they said.

Those letters which have been read show one thing conclusively—that the country realizes the vast importance of the question. Forty-seven hundred letters chosen from the files of eighteen senators representing every section of the country and both political parties, readily asserted themselves in four classes. First those unqualifiedly for the league as now proposed, 1,628.

Second, those for the league, with qualifications, 1,240.

Third, those expressing no opinion but asking information, 264.

Fourth, those unqualifiedly against the league in its present form, 1,580.

513 ALLEGED BOOT LEGGERS BEFORE THE FEDERAL COURT

Accused of Bringing Intoxicating Liquor From "Wet" Territory Into Indiana.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10—Five hundred and thirteen persons, accused of violating the federal liquor law prohibiting the transportation of intoxicating liquor from the wet territory of Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio into dry Indiana were arraigned in U. S. district court starting today.

This is the largest number ever indicted on those charges according to federal officers here. It is expected to take most of the week to hear all the pleas. Severe penalties for those who pleaded guilty are expected as Judge A. B. Anderson warned at the last session of court that he would be more severe with violators of the liquor laws in the future.

RIOTING GETTING BEYOND CONTROL

General Strike in Berlin Called off But Fighting in Some Sections of City Continues.

HUNGER SCARE IS MENACING

Common Talk That Food Will Give Out in May—Russian Propaganda is Circulated.

By United Press.

Berlin, March 10.—The revolution Saturday appeared to have got beyond control of its leaders. Although the general strike was officially called off, fighting continued in several parts of the city.

A strong minority was demanding compete overthrow of the cabinet and turning the country over to control of the soviets. This sentiment was being fostered by fear of hunger as well as money and propaganda alleged to be furnished by Russia.

The fighting is now limited to guerilla warfare but rebellion seemed to be in the atmosphere and it was feared that continued fighting might again cause a complete revolt.

War Minister Noe's iron hand was really the determining factor in causing the strike leaders to accept a compromise with the government as they feared terrorism by the radical elements—which had not been invited into the strike—would lead the cabinet to declare a military dictatorship.

The Spartans among the workmen however, refused to recognize the authority of the more conservative leaders whose conference with the cabinet at Weimar led to the compromise. The government has relented to the extent of granting the soviets constitutional recognition as directors of labor and production and promising partial socialization of industries. But the radicals want the soviets to be supreme and apparently are determined to fight until this is accomplished, or they are completely crushed.

With the radicals preaching a new revolution, the people are pessimistically anticipating a new calamity. There is common talk that food will give out completely in May and that every one will starve, unless peace comes and the blockade is lifted.

The general lack of confidence is provoking a startling irresponsibility and disregard for human life. The

CONVICTION OF EUGENE DEBS AFFIRMED BY SUPREME COURT

Sentenced to Serve Ten Years in Prison—Convicted Under The Espionage Law.

By United Press.

Washington, March 10.—The supreme court today affirmed the conviction of Eugene V. Debs of Terre Haute, former socialist candidate for president, found guilty of violation of the espionage laws in a speech at Canton, O., last summer. At the same time the court upheld the espionage act, which Debs claimed violated the constitutional right of free speech.

Along with the Debs case, the court decided against Jacob Frohwerk, a writer for a St. Louis German newspaper, who was also indicted and sentenced under the espionage act. Debs is under sentence to serve ten years in prison.

"BOOZE AUTOMOBILES" TO BE CONFISCATED

Government Agents Instructed by Judge Anderson to Seize Such Machines.

Indianapolis, March 10—Government agents were today instructed by Judge A. B. Anderson in federal court, to seize all autos found being used to bring intoxicating liquor into the state.

"These cars must be confiscated just like the whiskey," the Judge said. The court issued the instruction when more than 500 persons were being questioned on charges of violating the liquor laws by bringing whiskey into "dry" territory.

While the deplorable situation in Germany is undoubtedly due largely to the influence of Russian Bolshevik propaganda, the fear of hunger is an important factor in the disturbances. The propagandists have led the Germans to believe that the allies will not assist them. The delay in presenting peace terms is emphasized. As a result of these influences the German government is threatened and it is possible that it may be overthrown. The confusion in Germany could be clarified by a speedy presentation of terms of peace. A signing of the peace terms would aid business throughout the world and would assist in restoring more stable conditions. A settlement must be made first and then such questions as a league of nations can be considered.

This is the season of the year when plans ought to be made for the improvement of Shields Park. The site is one of natural beauty and with the expenditure of a few hundred dollars annually the grounds could be greatly improved within a few years' time. As has been frequently pointed out nothing can be gained by a haphazard program. The plans ought to be permanent and each year a part of the definite program completed. The park is more

WEAKNESS REMAINS LONG AFTER Influenza

Reports Show That Strength, Energy and Ambition Return Very Slowly to Grippe Patients.

After an attack of influenza, doctors advise that nature be assisted in its building-up process by the use of a good tonic—one that will not only put strength and endurance into the body, but will also help to build up and strengthen the run-down cells of the brain.

One of the most highly recommended remedies to put energy into both body and brain is Bio-feren—your physician knows the formula—it is printed below.

There's iron in Bio-feren—the kind of iron that makes red blood corpuscles and creates vigor. There is lecithin also; probably the best brain invigorator known to science. Then there is good old reliable gentian, that brings back your lagging appetite.

There are other ingredients that help to promote good health, as you can see by reading this formula, not forgetting kolo, that great agent that puts the power of endurance into weak people.

Taken altogether Bio-feren is a splendid active tonic that will greatly help any weak, run-down person to regain normal strength, energy, ambition and endurance.

Bio-feren is sold by all reliable druggists and is inexpensive. For weakness after influenza patients are advised to take two tablets after each meal and one at bed time—even a day, until health, strength and vigor are fully restored.

It will not fail to help you and if for any reason you are dissatisfied with results your druggist is authorized to return your money upon request—without any red tape of any kind.

Note to physicians: There is no secret about the formula of Bio-feren, it is printed on every package. Here it is: Lecithin; Calcium Glycero-phosphate; Iron Peptonate, Manganese Peptonate; Ext. Nux. Vomica; Powdered Gentian; Phenylthalein; Oleic Acid Capsicum, Kolo.

popular than it has ever been in the past. We are just beginning to realize what a valuable asset it is to the city. The public is appreciating it more than at any former time and the demand for a permanent and definite program of improvement is more general.

Recently some of the bridges in this county have been improved with new floors and much to the credit of the commissioners the boards have been laid lengthwise instead of crosswise of the structure. It took a long time to convince the commissioners that this was the proper method of laying a bridge floor, and they are to be congratulated that they are following the suggestion that has come from so many sources during the last four or five years.

It appears that the seat of the United States government has been temporarily removed to Paris. AMERICAN MILITARY POLICE FIGURE IN RIOT IN LONDON

Object When London Police Arrest Two American Soldiers Near a Y. M. C. A. Hut.

By United Press.

London, March 10.—The riot in the Strand yesterday resulted primarily from London civil policemen attacking American military policemen, according to information obtained today. When the civil officers arrested two American near the Y. M. C. A. Eagle hut, on a charge of gambling and started for jail, several military policemen followed and asked that the prisoners be turned over to them for military trial it was said. An argument resulted, which turned into a fight. The military policemen were clubbed and placed under arrest.

The news spread to the eagle hut. Several hundred American soldiers and sailors together with a few Canadian and Australian soldiers, started for the jail. Police reserves charged into their midst swinging clubs. A free-for-all ensued, in which four American soldiers and sailors were severely injured and five policemen and several score of Americans, Canadians and Australians were slightly hurt.

Mounted policemen were called out, but the fighting continued for two hours. Orders were finally restored through the intervention of additional military policemen who persuaded the soldiers and sailors to disperse. About fifteen Americans who had been arrested were later turned over to the American military authorities.

The Americans are greatly incensed, charging the London policemen were over hasty in using their clubs against military policemen who really were trying to quiet the disturbances.

first class came from professional and business men. Clergymen, scholars, educators, lawyers, writers—men and women alike—and many big business men apparently approve very heartily of the draft of the league constitution as it now stands.

The rest of the letters in the first class based their approval on faith in President Wilson. It may be significant that most of the letters in class one came from the east, New England and the south.

The vast bulk of the other three classes came from the middle and far west.

Through the "class two" letters ran the strain:

"We want an end to war, but—" and the writers then expressed in various ways their fears that the proposed league would enmesh the United States too deeply in foreign affairs. The Monroe doctrine, American sovereignty and all the other objections already urged were covered in these letters. Many of them complained that President Wilson's attitude is that of a man assuming superior wisdom and unwilling to come down to cases in giving reasons for various provisions.

Class three, the smallest, came largely from school teachers and women generally. Men apparently have made up their minds rather thoroughly on the league. The information asked was chiefly along the lines of the objections raised against the league in the senate.

Class four contained some bitter letters. In them President Wilson was vigorously assailed, senators criticizing the league were applauded and in a number more or less thinly veiled threats were made against the government if the league compact is ratified. Most of the letters of this class, however, struck the same note that ran through all the others—"let us prevent war forever."

Scores of the letters offered substitutes for the proposed league ranging from a policy of complete American isolation, maintained by force if necessary, to a policy of diplomacy, the chief feature of which would be keeping European nations constantly in rows with one another so this country would be let alone.

CUT YOUR SHOE BILLS

"Heretofore, soles never lasted me more than three months, because my work keeps me walking constantly on cement. But I have worn a pair of Neolin Soles now for more than three months, and judging from their present condition, they will last three times as long." So says G. L. Kerr, manager of an automobile organization in Geneva, N. Y.

This extra wear given by Neolin Soles not only makes the shoes soled with them cheaper by the year than other shoes, but the price you pay in the first place is sometimes less than for shoes of only ordinary wear.

You can get Neolin-soled shoes in many styles for every member of the family. Try these long-wearing, comfortable and waterproof soles on your worn shoes too. All good repair shops have them. Make This Test For Acid-Stomach

There are millions of people who suffer almost daily from the horrors of an acid-stomach—indigestion; sour, gassy, stomach; distressing heartburn; sickening food-repeating; painful bloating and that miserable, puffed up, lumpy feeling after eating. Many of these people have tried treatment after treatment; medicine after medicine; others have gone to doctors and stomach specialists and some to hospitals but in spite of all of their efforts they have obtained no lasting relief or a permanent cure.

These symptoms simply mean acid-stomach. If allowed to run on, they are very likely to cause a lot of serious trouble. Dyspepsia, rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica, splitting headache, dizzy spells, nervousness, sleeplessness, mental depression, melancholia, a feeling of listlessness and all-goneness—these are just a few of the disorders which can be traced to acid-stomach. As a matter of fact, acid-stomach is often the direct cause of those almost incurable conditions known as catarrh of the stomach, intestinal ulcer, and cancer of the stomach. The lives of those who suffer from these serious troubles are nothing short of daily agony. Surely, then, you must see how important it is to go at once to the seat of the trouble—acid-stomach. You know what acid-mouth does to the teeth—how it eats right through the hard enamel and causes them to decay. Think then of the havoc that must be caused by excess acid in the stomach!

Even if you are not suffering any immediate stomach pains, but are not feeling just as fit and fine as you should, you should by all means make this test: go to your drug store at once and get a big box of EATONIC. It is in the form of pleasant-tasting tablets—you eat them like a bit of candy. EATONIC is prepared for just one purpose—correcting acid-stomach by driving out the excess acid. EATONIC literally absorbs the excess acid. It brings instant relief from the pains of indigestion, heartburn, belching, sour, gassy stomach, bloating, etc. It makes the stomach pure, sweet, cool and comfortable, puts it in a normal, healthy condition, so that your food is properly digested. You need every bit of strength you can possibly get out of the food you eat—and EATONIC helps you get it.

Don't put this test off if you value your future good health and happiness. You run no chance at all because EATONIC is absolutely guaranteed to give you relief or your druggist will refund your money. The cost is a mere trifle.

STANLEY A. SWITZER TAKES PLACE IN SEYMOUR NATIONAL

Former Lieutenant in Army Enters Upon Banking Career—Formerly in Railway Service.

Stanley A. Switzer, formerly a lieutenant in the army, has taken a position as assistant bookkeeper in the Seymour National Bank and entered upon his new work today. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Switzer, North Ewing street, and has an extended acquaintance in the city.

Mr. Switzer is a graduate of the Seymour high school and after completing his school term took a position with the Pennsylvania Lines in the local freight office. He was promoted from time to time and was made ticket agent at the passenger depot here. He served in this capacity for several years and with such success that he was made city passenger agent in Milwaukee. He was employed in that work when he enlisted in the army and was accepted as a member of the third officers' training camp. He was given a commission as second lieutenant and later was promoted to a first lieutenant. He was ready to sail over-

You Can't Rub It Away; Rheumatism is in the Blood

Liniments Will Never Cure. If you are afflicted with Rheumatism, why waste time with liniments, lotions and other local applications that never did cure Rheumatism, and never will?

Do not try to rub the pain away, for you will never succeed. Try the sensible plan of finding the cause of the pain, and go after that. Remove the cause, and there can be no pain. You will never be rid of Rheumatism until you cleanse your blood of the germs that cause the disease. S. S. S. has never had an equal as a blood purifier and scores of sufferers say that it has cleansed their blood of Rheumatism, and removed all trace of the disease from their system.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drug store, and get on the right treatment to-day. If you want special medical advice, you can obtain it free by addressing Medical Director, 23 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

ODD FELLOWS OF INDIANA PLANNING BIG MEETING

All Lodges of State, Including Rebekahs, Planning for Big Celebration Here.

Indianapolis, March 10—Odd Fellows from every lodge in Indiana are planning a big meeting to be held in Indianapolis May 21 in celebration of the centennial anniversary of the order.

The program will include a public mass meeting at Tomlinson Hall to be addressed by Henry V. Borst of Amsterdam, N. Y., grand sire of the order, and Joseph Oliver of Toronto, Canada, deputy grand sire.

The first lodge of the order was established in Baltimore, Md., April 26, 1819, by five men. The order now has more than 30,000 lodges, encampments and Rebekah lodges, and numbers more than 2,250,000 members. To date the order has paid out for relief a total of nearly $200,000,000 and disburses for relief annually about $6,500,000.

The first Odd fellow Lodge was established in Indiana at New Albany in 1835 and the order has since grown to be one of the largest fraternal organizations in the state, having now a membership of 84,948 and 748 lodges.

The encampment branch of the Odd Fellow Lodge now has 18,214 members and has paid out $1,200,000 in benefits. The Rebekah branch of the Odd Fellows was established in 1851 and is thought to be one of the first women's organizations of the sort in America. It now has a membership of about 46,000 and 553 lodges.

George Widener, who is with the American Army in France, has sent The Republican a copy of the "American Daily Mail," published by the Americans in Paris. One article of especial interest is a graphic account by an eye witness in Berlin of the effect on the Germans when the armistice terms laid down by Marshal Foch were received. The realization was finally forced upon them that the Germans had met defeat and they gave expression to their feeling in the terse statement, "Foch is master of Germany."

Harold Brand has returned to Edinburg after spending a few weeks with friends.

TWO CENT PASSENGER RATE LAW REPEALED

Money Appropriated to Reimburse National Guardsmen for Their Uniforms.

Indianapolis, March 10—A bill repealing the 2-cent fare law for railroads was passed by the Senate in one of the omnibus roll calls. The vote was 40 ayes and 3 nays, Senators Strode, Dorrell and Humphreys casting negative votes.

With the repeal of the act which has been on the statutes since 1907 the way will be paved for passenger rate control by the public service commission if the railroads are turned back to their owners by the Federal government. Governor Goodrich, in his message, urged that all rate control laws be repealed in view of the fact that at present the railroads are operated by the government on a 3-cents-a-mile basis. With the 2-cent fare law on the statute books the railroad companies would find themselves bound by it if the roads reverted to their owners. When the government assumed control of the railroads the 2-cent fare law was set aside. Increased cost of operation would make a 2-cent fare a burden on the railroads, it is said.

Among the measures passed was the Jinnett bill which will reimburse Indiana national guardsmen for money spent in purchasing uniforms before the federalization of the organization. Senator VanAuken explained the bill, saying that for a period just prior to entrance of the National Guard into Federal service the quartermaster's department of the state was unable to provide sufficient uniforms. The men purchased uniforms with the understanding they were to be reimbursed. The amount involved is about $27,000. Senator VanAuken said the government would reimburse the state for the money expended for such purpose.

German in any grade school in Indiana, and the McCray bill providing that election instructions shall be printed in the English language only, are the three bills which are now laws.

The general and specific appropriation bills, both introduced in the house by Representative Swain of Pendleton, were butchered in the lower branch and many clerks and stenographers in state employ will receive lower wages than have been in the past. The salaries of higher paid officials will either be increased or left unchanged.

The Mendenhall tax reform measure suffered attacks in both the house and senate where it was modified to some extent before final action was taken on it.

Salaries of school teachers and many municipal and county officials were increased under provisions of more than a dozen bills introduced during the session.

Attempts to reveal the primary election laws and reinstate the nominating convention system in Indiana were defeated when the Beardsley-VanAuken senate bill was indefinitely postponed.

Woman's suffrage gained ground during the early part of the session when the Beardsley senate joint resolution, proposing to amend the state constitution and enfranchising the women of Indiana, was passed by both houses and deposited with the secretary of state to be acted on at the 1921 session of the legislature. Presidential suffrage was extended to women under provisions of the Johnson house bill which was passed without serious opposition.

Attempts to legalize Sunday motion picture shows and establish a state board of censorship failed after bitter fights between church federations and the movie interests.

War activities in Indiana were endorsed when the bill legalizing the action of the governor in borrowing funds with which to operate the state council of defense was passed.

Bills regarding drainage and road projects, applying only in special cases were introduced by the score and several became laws. The highway commission bill and the oil inspection measures were passed by the legislature only after hard fights on the floors of both houses.

The Furnas senate rule, prohibiting consideration of any measure failing to obtain unanimous report from the committee to which it had been referred threatened to cause a rupture between the two branches of the legislature as it was charged by members of the house that their bills, regardless of how meritorious they were, could be killed by one member of any committee who desired to present a minority report.

Ratification of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution was one of the first measures passed by the state legislature.

Proposed amendments to the state constitution passed by the legislative session closing today included:

Admission of colored citizens to Indiana state militia.

Abolishment of justice of the peace offices.

Appointment of Superintendent of Public instruction.

Equal suffrage for women and disenfranchisement of aliens.

Appointment of clerk of the supreme and appellate courts.

COLUMBUS CAPTURES THE DISTRICT TOURNEY HONORS

Wins Right to Enter State Contest by Defeating Browns-town, 42-8.

For the third time in three consecutive years the Columbus high school copped the championship basket ball title of this district. In the final game of the tournament on the Columbus floor Saturday night the Blue and White squad, all decked out in brand new uniforms purchased purposely for use at the state meet, handed Brownstown a neat little trimming by running up 42 points to the latter's 8. Brownstown started the scoring with a field goal but could neither hold its own pace nor stop that of its opponent. The Columbus team from the start showed up as the only vestige left of former splendor on the tournamental floor of this district. The players were all of good build and weight and carried in their playing a well developed team work both for offense and defense. In goal shooting Columbus had the only team, excluding Vallonia, that played for long shots. Taylor, captain of the winning squad, was generally conceded to be the best all around basket ball player in the district.

March 13, 14 and 15 will find 22

district champs ready to do battle for state honors at Lafayette. Recently there has been much speculation as to the probable winner of the state meet. It has been pretty generally suggested that Bloomington and Anderson stand about as good a show as any teams. Bloomington defeated Anderson on the Bloomington floor not long ago by the dangerous lead of one point. Both teams are playing a spotlight line of basket ball. The Scottsburg team that is credited with being an exceptionally strong opponent defeated Vevay 88 to 8 and was in turn defeated in the Bedford finals by Bloomington 21 to 9.

In the state meet Columbus will play her first game with South Bend. The latter won the championship from Laporte by a 17 to 10 points score. Very little has been heard here about South Bend's ability to play ball but popular sentiment over the district indicates that Columbus stands a pretty good chance of winning her first game. Other teams that will participate in the state meet are:

Manual, Anderson, Bloomington, Washington, Brazil, Columbus, Crawfordsville, Franklin, Thorntown, Emerson, Greencastle, Huntington, Kendallville, Kokomo, Jefferson, Logansport, Martinsville, Spiceland, Rochester, Richmond, South Bend, Vincennes.

The lineup and summary of the finals at Columbus Saturday night are as follows:

Columbus (42) Brownstown (8)
Taylor Forward Gras
Crim Forward Cross
Gerhardt Center Robertson
Davis Guard C. Davis
Fately Guard I. Davis
Field Goals—Taylor 2, Crim 6,
Gerhardt 11, Davis 2, Gray, Cross,
C. Davis.

Foul goals—Gray 2.
Referee—Rathburn.

Some years ago, when North Carolina voted "dry" its citizens became very suspicious of strangers. One day a commercial traveler offered an old negro $2 if he would lead him to some place where he could get a drink.

After some hesitation the old fellow agreed and the trip began. He led the thirsty one through the town, on through the suburbs into the country, and then started due west.

"Look here, Sam," said the other, losing patience, "where are we going after this drink, anyway?"

"We're gwine ovah into Kentucky, boss," was the reply. "We can't get nuthin' in dis state."—Boston Transcript.

ALL CITIZENS ARE VITALLY CONCERNED

Chamber of Commerce Passes Resolutions Covering Public Utilities.

Resolution passed by the Bangor Chamber of Commerce relative to the attitude of Public Bodies and the People Generally toward Public Utilities.

"Whereas, The Bangor Chamber of Commerce feels that the country is facing a grave situation in regard to public utilities.

And whereas they feel that all citizens are vitally interested in the well-being of the public utilities.

And Whereas they feel that on their organization and on similar organizations throughout this entire country rests a grave responsibility in this regard,

Now Therefore be it Resolved:

That the Bangor Chamber of Commerce, realizing that their duty is to study the question both in the State of Maine and elsewhere, desires to make known to their members and to the citizens of this community the result of their study.

That as a result of that study the Bangor Chamber of Commerce finds that a substantial part of the funds of the savings banks is invested in bonds of public utilities; that the depositors of Mutual savings Banks are in realities part owners of every such investment. That the same is true of the Life Insurance Companies both as to investment and ownership. That the present and future well-being of every community is directly dependent upon the successful running and further development of the Public Utilities operating in their locality. That every such community should be anxious to see that the conditions under which such Public Utilities are operating are such as to allow the companies sufficient revenue to properly protect the public from accidents, to keep their lines in good condition to render efficient service to the public, to make further needed developments, and to safely guard the property ownership of the investing public.

The Bangor Chamber of Commerce feels that a much graver responsibility rests with the Public Service Commissions; that their sworn duty is to see that the Public Utilities are properly and efficiently run; that their sworn duty is to wibwuk? if they are responsible for the credit, continuity and general well-being of the Public Utilities. That every Public Service Commission should be upheld and backed where they have recognized such responsibility. That where Commissions have not so recognized this duty the public should insist that they do.

The Bangor Chamber of Commerce urges every Board of Trade in the State of Maine to start at once a study of this question, to urge the National Chamber of Commerce at Washington to give space in "The Nation's Business" to this question, to ask the National Chamber of Commerce to urge every member of the National Association to study this question and to make known through publicity in the same channels the result of this study.

The Bangor Chamber of Commerce also urges the Bangor Rotary Club to take this up with their National Association in the same manner. The Bangor Chamber of Commerce feels that an intelligent study of this question by the business men of the country, with a campaign of publicity as to the results of this study will aid greatly in solving rightly this very grave problem."—(Adv.)

vealed, a man answering the description of the one who presented the check at the Racket store, selected a hat at Hustedt's millinery store. He said he wanted to buy a hat for his sister. He selected a medium priced hat and was informed that he would have to call for it about an hour later as it had to be lined.

During the evening the man was seen looking into the window at the millinery store and waited until all customers had departed before entering. He was told the hat was ready and the clerk put it in a sack. The stranger then presented a check, but Miss Hustedt refused to honor it unless the man could identify himself. He left the store and did not return.

A number of worthless checks have been presented at the local stores recently and the merchants are warned to be on the guard. A few attempts have been made to raise checks and drafts and some losses have been reported. Merchants as a rule require strangers to prove their identity before accepting their checks, but some times a bogus check will be accepted, and the discovery is not made until the stranger has departed for new fields.

Grinling Gibbons Style

One of the master craftsmen of old England was the sponsor of the style which carried his name during the late seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries. Gibbons was a master of detail in carving, and delicate embellishment in low relief made attractive the pieces which he designed.

Though he was a Dutch decent, his fancies and tendencies were more of the French, and the impulses which promoted him in his work were born of his love for the French and not the early Dutch designs.

Symmetry of line, delicacy of carving, and simplicity of decoration are the most notable of the characteristic features of the style of this period. For over two centuries, the ideas of this old designer have been incorporated into the designing of more and more modern furniture, and through all the years, it has been accepted as representing the highest standards of good taste, Grinling Gibbons Style is one which will continually reflect the taste of those who choose it for their homes.

Plant Vegetables You Can Grow Successfully

Did you grow some vegetables last year that were not so successful as others—such as potatoes in poor soil, carrots in the shade, and so on?

Perhaps you tried celery, cauliflower, sweet corn, or peas? Celery is an uncertain crop because of disease and in the small garden it takes up so much space for the crop you get that it is not worth while to bother with it. Cauliflower is rather hard to grow too, except under ideal conditions of soil and climate. You need lots of space to grow enough peas for table and canning; if you grow any in a small garden, use the tall sorts that are better producers than dwarf varieties. Sweet corn should not be attempted in the small garden—not that it is hard to grow, but it is not a profitable crop in the small space available.

Did you plant some vegetables in a shady corner where they had no sunlight to stimulate growth? Plenty of sun is necessary for growth of vegetable plants. If you have a small section of your garden that is shaded part of the day, in midsummer you can plant your lettuce or other leaf crops there—the all-day sun at that time of the year would be too hot for them.

The following crops are suggested for the small home garden: root crops such as carrots, beets, and turnips; lettuce, green onions, radishes, chard, a few tomato plants—and if you have enough space, some bush snap beans. These will produce more than if you attempted to grow on a small space such crops as sweet corn, celery or potatoes.

A Few Reminders to Gardeners

By the Division of Horticulture. Have you gotten your supply of horse manure for making the hotbed? Manure is always scarce, so "first come, first served."

You have your garden plan drawn before this time but if you should have neglected this important duty, get busy. Plan to use all your space by arranging for companion and succession crops.

Are the garden tools in good order? The hoe blade should be sharpened and all broken handles repaired before the first days of preparation come.

Is your vegetable seed supply ready? If not, it would be wise to place your order at once for great demands will be made on seedsmen this year. The warm days of January turned many people's thoughts gardenward and caused the seed firms to receive more orders than ever before so early in the year. If you neglect to order now, some of your favorite varieties may be sold out later.

Cabbage seed is scarce and expensive this year. Use the seed left over from last year and make every one count. A few heads of cabbage in the home garden are always welcome for boiling, creaming like cauliflower, or in the fall for making kraut.

Order first of all the seeds of vegetables that you are planting in the hotbed, cabbage, cauliflower, kohlrabi, head lettuce, tomatoes, peppers and eggplants.

Make the acquaintance of Swiss chard and New Zealand spinach this summer if you've never grown these delicious "greens" before. A fifteen foot row of Swiss chard will be enough to supply the average family all summer with some to can and dry as well. Either of these vegetables will flourish through the hot weather from early summer until frost.

Garden Yields

Many home gardeners in Seymour are in doubt as to how much of each vegetable to plant in their gardens since they do not know how much they can produce from a certain area. Any estimated yield can only be approximate since the vegetables you will secure from a row of certain length will depend on your soil, on weather conditions, and cultural practice. The following estimates are based on what may reasonably be expected if you have good soil, use proper fertilization, and take proper care of your garden:

From hundred foot rows you may get the following yields:

Bush string beans: 1 to 3 bushels.
Bush lima beans: 10 quarts.
Beets, Carrots, parsnips, turnips, salsify: 2 to 5 bushels.
Sweet corn: 8 to 13 dozen ears.
Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes: 1 to 2 bushels.
Early cabbage: 65 heads weighing 1½ to 2 pounds each.
Late cabbage: 50 heads weighing 3 to 4 pounds each.

Onions: 2 bushels.

Peas: 1 bushel.

Tomatoes: 5 to 8 bushels.

From the above list, if you know approximately how much of each vegetable you can use during the year, you can figure the space you must allow for each crop to get enough for summer use, canning, and drying.

Some other vegetables not included in the above list should find a place in the home garden. Fifteen or twenty feet of Swiss chard will supply greens for summer table use and canning for the average family. Half a dozen parsley plants will provide garnishing and flavoring greens.

You do not need to supply space for early radishes. Mix a few radish seed with your parsnips and salsify at seeding time. Your radishes will be large enough to eat before the other plants in the same rows get large. A few mango plants will give you a constant supply of this vegetable while a short row of leaf lettuce will be enough to supply salad for most families.

Plant Some Flowers

In ordering your vegetable garden seeds, include in your list a few packets of flower seeds to provide a bright colored border for your garden.

The appearance of your garden will be improved a hundred per cent. if you plant a border of flowers; or even a few flowers along one side. Not only will your garden be a more cheerful place to work, but you will have cut flowers to use for house decoration all summer.

The seed may be sown at the same time you are planting your vegetables. It is best to use such annuals as will not require a great deal of care and will bloom nearly all summer. The following are suggested: Aster, candytuft, coxcomb, marigold, nasturtium, petunia, California poppy and zinnia.

Keep Garden Records

Every home gardener in Jackson county should keep an accurate record of his garden if he expects to better his results the following year. How many who cultivated a vacant lot or backyard the past year know just how much was their profit in dollars and cents—and whether they secured maximum returns from the ground used?

The following points should be noted in the case of each variety of vegetable planted: Name of vegetable, name of variety, dates of sowing, when plants first appeared above the ground, dates thinned, cultivated, fertilized, sprayed, first and last harvest, total yield and any remarks on special behavior of some particular variety. These notes may all be placed on one sheet of paper or a page of a notebook, if columns be drawn and one of the points above placed as the heading for each column.

From the above data, you will be informed just how good the varieties are and may judge whether you should plant the same the following year or get more productive or better quality varieties.

A record should be kept from day to day of yield and the market value of the same on days harvested. Every day that you record the vegetables you have gathered from the garden enter opposite these figures the price you would have to pay at the grocery for them. Then you'll have at the end of the season an accurate statement for the cash value of vegetable harvested. Beat the record you made last year.

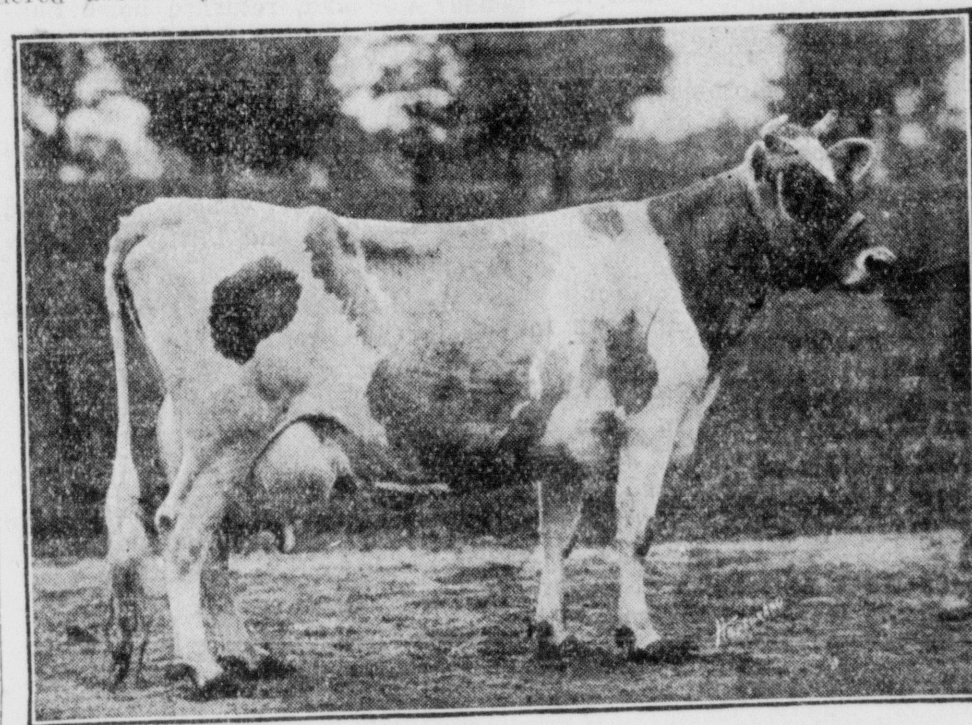

Holstein Cow Makes Fortune in Eggs, Oranges and Oysters

Tilly Alcartra, Pure-bred Holstein, Breaks All Previous Production Records.

Food won the war, and food is going to be the most important single factor in the reconstruction of the nations of the Earth. From the standpoint of food production, therefore, the record recently completed by the pure bred Holstein cow, Tilly Alcartra No. 123459, is of particular interest to every resident of Jackson County whether classed as consumers, dependent upon Agriculture as the original source of food supply, or as producers aiding in the task of feeding a hungry world.

Tilly has been 'in test,' as the breeders express it, every year since she first freshened as a 2 year old—a total of six years. This means that every milking during those six years has been carefully weighed, tested for butter-fat content, and officially recorded by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, representatives of the State College of Agriculture of California, in which state Tilly resides, being present to supervise the actual weighing and testing. In this way the figures are rendered absolutely above the shadow of a doubt. According to these official figures, Tilly has produced during this six year period the stupendous total of 156,176.10 pounds milk, 6,140.12 pounds butter, her final year just completed, being the best one of the six, with 33,424.8 pounds milk and 1,323 pounds butter. The Holstein Friesian World is authority for the statement that not only is this six-year total by far the largest record for either milk or butter ever made by a dairy cow of any breed, but that the one-year record mentioned is likewise a world's record for milk production by a margin of over 2,000 lbs. This Holstein newspaper further states that her figures surpass those of the Jersey cow distance champion, Sophia 19th of Hood Farm, by over 600 pounds butter and about 5,000 pounds more than twice as much milk. This gives some idea of the magnitude of her achievements.

So much for the dollars and cents side of the question. Let us get back to the food question again. Basing our computations on U. S. Government figures as to the food value of various articles of diet, stated in calories, as a common basis for comparison, we find the following facts are pertinent:

The milk produced by Tilly Alcartra has an actual food value equaling approximately, 100 prime beef steers (allowing 500 pounds of meat, free from waste.) $22,716 worth of eggs at fifty cents a dozen.

$39,663 worth of oranges at seventy-five cents a dozen. $66,105 worth of oysters—29,380 gallons, at $2.25 per gallon.

Figured at fifteen cents per quart her milk, equaling in actual food value the figures given above, would total $11,700. And yet some of us think we cannot afford to use much milk when it gets above ten cents a quart.

Tilly Alcartra was bred and born in Iowa, in the herd of McKay Bros., but since a yearling has been owned by A. W. Morris & Sons Corp., of California, in whose herd all of her great records have been made.

Tilly Alcartra stands today as a living, vital demonstration of the possibilities of dairying. She is the most striking example of the efficiency of the dairy cow as a food producer. She consumes large quantities of ordinary farm roughage, and the by-products of our grain mills, and converts it all into man's most nearly perfect and indispensable food—milk. The work of Tilly Alcartra shines as a beacon light pointing the way to greater dairy production, and to a better and more profitable agriculture.

Just consider what these production figures mean. They mean that during the past year Tilly Alcartra has averaged 91 pounds—practically 45 quarts—of milk for every day of the year. Her average weekly yield of butter was over 25 pounds. Taking her records each year from two years old upwards, she has averaged to produce practically 36 quarts of milk every day of the year for the six years. At least seven average cows would be required to produce an equal amount. Think of the economy in labor and feed in keeping one pure-bred Holstein that will do the work of seven average cows, year after year. During the past year Tilly excelled nine average cows in total production, while the net profit on her year's work was greater than the majority of the entire herds can show. According to careful figures furnished by her owners, Tilly's feed bill, at current prices totals between $275 and $290, her daily grain ration comprising only sixteen pounds of common feeds, ground barley, ground oats, wheat meal, and linseed oil meal, all of them feeds that are available for the average dairyman. This is a smaller amount of concentrated feed than the champions of the Jersey and Guernsey breeds consumed, and the Holstein exceeded their milk production by over 100 per cent, and 70 per cent, respectively. During nine months of her year she ran at pasture about four hours a day. On the other side of the ledger, we find a credit of $920, the actual price at which her milk was sold—$2.75 per hundred which is less than the average price in most localities. At fifteen cents a quart it would have brought practically $2,500. If it had been made into butter, the value of that commodity, with the skim milk, would have figured right around $900. In addition she has produced a live healthy calf each year, and on account of her unequalled work, breeders would be willing to pay almost any prices the owners might place upon them, the total for the six running into a good many thousand dollars.

Bartholomew County Dairymen Organize Testing Association

Twenty-four dairymen and breeders of dairy cattle near Columbus have become members of the newly organized Bartholomew County Cow Testing Association.

This association will hire an expert dairyman to keep records of the production and feed for their cows so that they will know more about the dairy business. The records will show each month whether each cow is making a profit or whether she is "boarding" off of the owner. County Agent C. M. Job who was instrumental in bringing these men together in the organization stated that they hope to obtain a tester and start work during the coming week. W. E. Springer of Elizabethtown, was elected president of the association and Isaac Breeding of Edinburg, secretary.

Corn-Soybean Combination Crop

Corn and soybean mixtures for hogging off and for silage are rapidly gaining in popularity. The mixture undoubtedly produces a richer and better balanced feed since the soybeans are rich in protein and tend to balance up the corn which is lacking in protein.

The combined crop will make a larger tonnage than corn alone provided there is enough soil moisture and mineral plant food to take care of both crops. In a dry season the soy beans will have a tendency to lessen the tonnage.

VARIETIES. For planting with corn for silage in all except the most northern counties the Hollybrook variety of soybeans is one of the best, because it is an erect and vigorous growing variety that stands the competition of the corn very well, grows large enough so that the corn binder will get it in harvesting and it will arrive at the proper degree of maturity for silage at about the same time as the corn.

For hogging off, the variety of soybeans is not so important as regards its vigor of growth, so long as the time of maturity is approximately the same as the corn, because the hogs will get the crop even if it is short, but for silage it is important to have tall growing plants, as otherwise there will be difficulty in harvesting them. In the northern couple of tiers of counties the earlier maturing varieties, such as the Ito San or Early Brown, must be used.

METHOD OF PLANTING. For planting the corn and soybean mixture, the best plan is to use a corn planter with a bean attachment, so that both corn and beans can be drilled at one operation. The corn should be drilled in the usual way and the soybeans drilled so as to give a stand of about 3 or 4 plants per foot in the row. This will require about 10 pounds of seed of the Hollybrook and similar sized varieties. Of the larger seeded varieties it will require 12 to 15 pounds per acre. Without the bean attachment on the planter it is still possible to plant both corn and soybeans at one operation if the planter has a fertilizer attachment, in which case the soybeans can be mixed with a sufficient amount of soil to make the required bulk and drill in that way. Mix 90 pounds of soil with 10 pounds of soybean seed and set the fertilizer attachment at 100 pounds to the acre. If fertilizer is to be applied it should be mixed with an equal quantity of soil to dilute it and guard against any possibility of the fertilizer injuring the germination of the soybeans by being planted directly with it. With a plain planter, without either a bean or fertilizer attachment, the best plan is to drill the corn in the usual way and then plant the soybeans by themselves by drilling over the same rows with the planter set somewhat shallower so as not to disturb the corn. One of the smaller sized corn plates should be used for the soybeans, depending upon the size of the seed. By further adjusting the planter by means of the sprocket chain and the drop adjustment, the right rate of drilling can be secured. The aim should be to drop the seeds 4 to 6 inches apart. The rate of drilling can be tested by driving along a hard road, or the planter can be set up on a couple of blocks and the wheel turned by hand, trying different plates and different sprocket wheels and different rates of drop until you get 20 to 25 seeds when the wheel is turned to travel 100 inches.

INOCULATION. To inoculate soybeans the surest and usually the most satisfactory way is to get some soil from a field where inoculated soybeans have been grown within the last few years, screen it, and thoroughly mix from 2 to 4 quarts of it per bushel of soybean seed as it is put into the drill or planter box. A double handful of soil is plenty for a corn planter boxfull of soybean seed. It is best if the soil is somewhat moist, but that is not very important, as enough of the inoculated soil, even if it has become dry, will adhere to seeds of the size of the soybean to insure inoculation. The soil should not be exposed to sunlight any more than necessary. In case it is not convenient to get soil, the pure cultures of the proper bacteria can be secured through seedsmen or directly from such firms as the Edwards Laboratories, Lansing, Mich., or the Standard Seed & Soil Inoculation Co., Rochester, N. Y.

Represented in Baby Beef Book

Indiana is well represented in pictures in a "Boys' Baby Beef Book" just issued by the American-Aberdeen Angus Breeders' Association. The pamphlet has a picture of Fyvie Knight 2nd., the Purdue University steer which was the grand champion of the 1919 International Livestock Show at Chicago; a picture of Miss Ruth Lindley, of Fountain County, and her calf which won the highest honors at the Fountain County Fair and later at the Indiana-Illinois Fair at Danville, Ill., and another photograph of the Henry County calf club. The Henry county picture shows 31 Angus calves lined up the day the prizes were awarded, more than $400 being distributed to the young feeders.

Senour and Driscoll Close

Messrs. J. A. Driscoll and W. H. Senour, members of the Franklin County (Indiana) Cow Testing Association who are doing Register of Merit work are running neck and neck with their high record cows. Last month Senour led with Fox's Roseletta 58.3 pounds of butter fat and his second cow, Will Do's Rosebud, tied with Driscoll's Arletta of B. V. F. with 52.2 pounds of fat. This month Driscoll comes out with Exiles Greeba 55.7 pounds fat leading Senour's Roseletta cow by one tenth pound of fat.

Prune Young Trees Lightly to Get Fruit

"Pruning is one of the most important orchard operations but it is not a medicine for all orchard ills," says C. L. Burkholder, of the Purdue University horticultural extension staff. "Fertilization, spraying, mulching or cultivating play just as important a part in the orchard program as does pruning. Each depends on the other for success." Here are some suggestions he gives.

Prune a young apple tree so as not to leave more than three or four at the most, main scaffold branches. Keep these from all starting out at one place and do not cut off the small twigs that start out on these scaffold limbs from year to year. They represent the fruit effort of the tree to produce fruit. From five, ten or fifteen years, prune an apple tree lightly, taking out mostly interfering and cross limbs. If the tree shows a tendency to grow too upright, cut back the upward leaders to and just above a limb or cluster of limbs running out more or less parallel to the ground.

Prune old trees more severely removing part of the small limbs and spurs over the top and outside of the tree. Tall growing trees should have five or six feet of the top removed, cutting back to and just above a lateral limb. Cut close; never leave stubs. This is especially important where cuts are made to reduce the height of the tree. Start to prune in the top and not the crotch of a tree. If you have only ten minutes to give to a tree spend the time in cutting back and thinning out the small branches in the top. Don't "prune a tree up." Try to avoid growing trees that require a windmill tower from which to spray them and a 40 foot ladder to pick the fruit. A little annual pruning of the top will accomplish this purpose.

Why be satisfied with a single crop? It is possible to grow two or three crops of some vegetables in one season.

Don't take a chance with Jack Frost. If uncertain of his probable last appearance consult experienced gardeners or the nearest Weather Bureau station.

The River

When the Colorado
Burst Its Banks and Flooded the Imperial Valley of California

By EDNAH AIKEN

(Copyright, Bobbs-Merrill Company.)

Rickard knew where he would get his rock. Already he had requisitioned the entire output of the Tacna and Patagonia quarries. He had ordered steam shovels to be installed at the quarry back of old Hamlin's. That rock pit would be his first crutch, and the gravel bed—that was a find! As he paced the levee west of the towns, he was planning his campaign. Porter was scouring Zacatecas for men; he himself had offered, as bait, free transportation; the O. P. he knew would back him. He was going to throw out a spur-track from the Heading, touching at the quarry and gravel pit, on to the main road at Yuma. Double track most of the way; sidings every three miles. Rock must be rushed; the trains must be pushed through. He itched to begin. It never occurred to him that, like Hardin, he might fail.

"Though it's no pink tea," he told himself, "it's no picnic." At Tucson he knew that the situation was a grave one, but his talk with Brandon, who knew his river as does a good Indian, made the year a significant, eventful one. Matt Hamlin, too, whose shrewd eyes had grown river-wise, he, too, had had tales to tell of the tricky river. Maldonado, the half-breed, had confirmed their portents while they sat together under his oleander, famous throughout that section of the country. And powerfully had Cornei, the Indian who had piloted Estrada's party across the desert, whom Rickard had met at the Crossing, deeply had he impressed him. The river grew into a malevolent, mocking personality; he could see it a dragon of yellow waters, dragging its slow, sluggish length across the baked desert sands; deceiving men by its inertness; luring the explorer by a mild mood to rise suddenly with its wild fellow, the Gila, sending boat and boatmen to their swift doom.

Rickard was thinking of the half-breed, Maldonado, as he inspected the new stretch of levee between the towns. He had heard from others besides Estrada of the river knowledge of this descendant of trapper and squaw, and had thought it worth while to ride the twenty miles from down the river to talk with him. The man's sunniness, his narrow slits of eyes, the lips thin and facile, deep lines of cruelty falling from them, had repelled his visitor. The mystery of the place followed him. Why the 'dobe' wall which completely surrounded the small, low dwellings? Why the cau-

After Your Baby Is Born

Think Now About the Time to Come Afterwards.

When you hold in your arms your tiny new infant, be sure that you can feel that before its arrival you did all in your power to give to it a happy pre-natal influence. Scientists say that the thoughts and feelings of the expectant mother greatly affect the health and disposition of the future infant.

For over half a century thousands of women who have used the time-honored remedy, Mother's Friend, say that they entirely escaped nausea, nervousness and that peculiar distressing feeling so usual where nature is unaided. They thus preserved a wonderfully bright and happy disposition, which reflects so markedly upon the unborn child.

By the regular use of Mother's Friend the muscles are made and kept soft and elastic to readily yield to nature's demand for expansion without the usual wrenching strain. The nerves are not drawn upon, and as a consequence the expectant mother is calm and serene and the nights are not disturbed with nervous twitchings, and the crisis is one of joy and happiness.

tious admittance, the atmosphere of suspicion? Rickard had seen the wife, a frightened shadow of a woman; had seen her flinch when the brute called for her. He had questioned Cornei about the half-breed. He was remembering the wrinkles of contempt on the old Indian's face as he delivered himself of an oracular grunt.

"White man? No. Indian? No! Coyote!"

Though he suspected Maldonado would lie on principle, though it might be that two-thirds of his glib tissue were false, yet a thread of truth coincident with the others, Brandon and Hamlin and Cornei, might be pulled out of his romantic fabric.

"When the waters of the Gila run red look out for trouble!" He doubted that they ever ran red. He would ask Cornei. He had also spoken of a cycle, known to Indians, of a hundredth year, when the Dragon grows restless; this he had declared was a hundredth year.

Following his talk with Maldonado and the accidental happy chance meeting with Cornei at the Crossing, Rickard had written his first report to Tod Marshall. Before he had come to the Heading he had expected to advise against the completion of the wooden headgate at the Crossing. Hamlin had given him a new viewpoint. There was a fighting chance. And he wanted to be fair. Next to being successful he wanted to be fair.

"It's time to be hearing from Marshall," Rickard was thinking, as he walked back to the hotel. "I wonder what he will say." He felt it had been fair to put it up to Marshall; personally, he would like to begin with a clean slate—begin right. Chumsy work had been done, it was true, yet there were urgent reasons now for haste; and the gate was nearly half done! He had gone carefully over the situation. The heavy snowfall, unprecedented for years, a hundred, according to the Indians—on the Wind Rover mountains—the lakes swollen with ice, the Gila restless, the summer floods yet to be met; perhaps, he now thought, he had been overfair in emphasizing the arguments for the headgate. For the hundred feet were now a thousand feet—yet he had spoken of that to Marshall: "Calculate for yourself the difference in expense since the flood widened the break. It is a vastly different problem now Disaster Island, which they figured on for anchor, is a mere pit of corroding sugar in the channel. An infant Colorado could wash it away. However, a lot of work has already been done, and a lot of money spent. There is a fighting chance. Perhaps the bad year is all Indian talk."

A guess, at best, whatever they did! It was pure gamble what the tricky Colorado would do. Anyway, he had given the whole situation to Marshall.

In his box at the hotel was a telegram which had been sent over from the office—from Tod Marshall. "Take the fighting chance. But remember to speak more respectfully of Indians."

"Marshall all over," laughed his subordinate. "Now it's a case of hustle! But dollars to doughnuts, as Junior says, we don't do it!"

INDIANA FAMOUS FOR LIVE STOCK

Many Organizations Perfected Throughout State by County Agricultural Agents.

Lafayette Ind., March 10.—The fame of Indiana as a center for pure-bred live stock is spreading largely through the work of county agricultural agents, who are helping the breeders of the state find a market for their products not only at home, but throughout the country. The agents are exerting their influences through the formation of live stock associations and through the introduction of purebred or higher-grade animals in the farm flocks and herds.

As a result of this work, live stock men throughout the country are seeking out Indiana breeders now even more than they have in the past. Many orders from eastern states for pure-bred pigs for pig clubs were filled last year and cattle breeders have filled orders for calf clubs in different sections of the country.

Requests for two car loads of rams to head flocks in two southern states were received only last week by animal husbandrymen at Purdue University and efforts to fill these orders through Indiana breeders will be made.

In 1918 the county agents were responsible for the formation of forty-five live stock associations, with a membership of 1,269, and in the first two months of this year more than a score of such associations have been formed.

The county agents are helping to improve live stock in hundreds of cases by the use of pure-bred sires. Last year they were responsible for the introduction on farms of ten registered stallions, 166 registered bulls, 645 registered cows, 64 regis-

Much work of an educational nature in the control of hog cholera was done, more than 41,000 hogs being vaccinated by veterinarians last year at the suggestion of the agents, who also organized 124 clubs of farmers to control cholera when an outbreak occurred.

The commission of the bureau of internal revenue announces that corporations and individuals unable to file their returns by March 15 may obtain an extension of forty-five days by filing on or before that date an estimate of the amount of tax due, altogether with a payment of at least one-fourth of the estimated tax. This affords ample opportunity for the filing of the complete return.
